Chalet de la famille Mercier

Joseph-Alfred était constructeur de ponts et de quais et cultivateur. En 1886, il acquiert la propriété de l'Anse. Vers 1916, il construit un chalet familial dont deux de ses fils, Benoît-Joseph et Théodore, en perpétuent la tradition. Joseph-Alfred donna son nom à l'Anse suite à son aide pour avoir sauvé lors du naufrage d'un navire la cargaison de la Marine-Marchande-Canadienne.

A WORD FROM THE PRESIDENT

Greetings to all!

Here is the latest issue of Le Mercien, Summer 2020. Our thanks go to our archivist Gilmond #28 for his excellent toponymic research in Quebec place names. You are encouraged to send us your comments regarding streets and avenues named Mercier in your area. Should you have additional information, please forward it to Gilmond at gilmondm@sogetel.net. We thank our members who have paid their dues, as well as those who have made donations to the Association. Your support is greatly appreciated. We are still here!

Have a good read
and until next time!

MERCIER WOMEN: MOTHERS IN THE VARIOUS LINES OF DESCENDANTS IN NEW FRANCE

Jeanne: Mother of the Poulin/Mercier of North America line

Jeanne Mercier was probably the first woman with the last name Mercier to have come to live in North America. In 1636, she likely arrived on the same ship as her future husband Claude Poulin. They were married three years later in Quebec City.

Following a stay in France, the couple settled for good in 1647 along the Beaupré coast where the Sainte-Anne parish is presently located. Claude Poulin worked as a farmer for the Seigneur de Beaupré.

The couple had nine children, born between 1641 and 1664. Their daughter Marie married Julien Mercier, the ancestor of more than 80% of the Merciers of North America. Less than a century later, Jeanne and Claude had 312 descendants.

Jeanne died on December 14, 1687 and she was buried in Sainte-Anne. The names of Jeanne and Claude Poulin are engraved among the listing of the first settlers on the pedestal of the monument to Louis-Hébert located in Vieux-Québec, at the entrance to Montmorency park, near Porte-Dauphine street.

Marie: Mother of the Babin/Mercier of North America line

Acadians Antoine Babin and Marie Mercier married at Port-Royal in 1661. Located in Nova Scotia, their settlement, founded in 1603, was later renamed Annapolis Royal following the conquest by the English.

Antoine was a farmer. Anyone touring the Annapolis Valley area can marvel at the beautiful lands farmed by the Acadians - they were dispossessed of them by the English, who deported their occupants.

Unfortunately, we do not know the names of Marie and Antoine's parents. Antoine was likely born around 1626 in the Poitou and his wife around 1645. They seem to have settled in the region of Grand-Pré. Their children were named Marie, Charles, Vincent, Jeanne, Marguerite, Magdeleine and Jean.

Following the deportation of the Acadians in 1755, some descendants of the couple founded Bonaventure in Gaspésie. Others, exiled to Massachusetts, came back to Cape Breton where they worked as seamen or fishermen. Some can also be found in the Bécancour region in Quebec.

Marie-Thérèse: Mother of the Beupré/Mercier of North America line

Marie-Thérèse was the daughter of Louis and Marie-Louise Simon and the granddaughter of Julien Mercier and Marie Poulin. She was born in Quebec City and baptised on November 16, 1710. She married François-Pierre Beupré in 1725. She was then 14 years old and her husband was 26.

François-Pierre was a master-locksmith and he came from Metz in Moselle, in the eastern part of France, near Germany, in Lorraine, north of Alsace. He first settled in Quebec City and later went to work at the Forges-du-Saint-Maurice, the first industrial establishment in Canada. Located along the Saint-Maurice river, North of Trois-Rivières, it made cast iron products. The place has been made into a national historic site.

When François died in an accident, at the age of 40, the couple had seven children: Louise, Pierre-Jean, Nicolas, Augustin, Claude, Étienne and François. The widow Marie-Thérèse married Marc Lelièvre in 1741.

Jeanne: Mother of the Mailloux/Mercier line

Born in 1640 in the parish of Saint-Pierre de Brie-sous-Matha (Charente-Maritime, Saintonge, France), Jeanne married, at the age of 19, Michel Mailloux in that same parish, where they had their first three children: Jacques, Barthélemy and Anne. Jeanne, Marie, Françoise, Henriette and Marie-Anne were born in New France.

Jeanne was the daughter of Louis Mercier and Anne Bastard. She and her husband settled around 1670 on a lot in the seigneurie of La Durantaye on the south shore of Quebec City. Nearly sixty years later, they had 95 descendants from their sons and daughters. The Mailloux name became quite common through the descendants of Pierre, Michel's brother.

The 1681 census showed that they owned three head of cattle, one rifle and 12 acres of land. Jeanne died around 1700 and her husband remarried later with Madeleine Groleau. No child was born of that union.

HÉLÈNE MERCIER

World-Renowned Concert Pianist

In February 2020, Hélène Mercier made a visit to Quebec that did not go unnoticed. She came with Alain Lefèvre, to introduce their new album: a tribute to Quebec composer André Mathieu (1929-1968). Hélène Mercier and Alain Lefèvre perform André Mathieu: For friendship and for the love of Quebec.

Source: Wikipédia

Hélène has been performing for many years in the major concert halls throughout Europe, North America and Asia. She has been invited to perform with symphony orchestras as well as with renowned artists such as pianist Louis Lortie, violinist Vladimir Spivakov, and cellist Mstislav Rostropovitch.

Her lineage is remarkable: her father François, an eminent lawyer and her mother Lucille Rouleau "the queen of real estate in Outremont", had exceptional careers. Her grandfather, Oscar (Jeanne Bruneau) and her great-grandfather Oscar-Félix (Alexina Rolland) had outstanding careers in the field of medicine in Quebec. In upcoming issues of the Mercien, we will present the accomplishments of these worthy descendants - of Joseph (Zoé Gauthier), of François (Victoire Therrien) - a coachbuilder and the father of Alaska and Yukon explorers François-Xavier and Moïse (see the Mercien volume 33, number 4), of Joseph (Marie-Catherine Lachapelle) - voyageur and farmer and of Charles (Marianne Lahaise) - a grenadier from the line of Merciers also known as Lajoie.

Hélène married in Paris, in 1991, Frenchman Bernard Arnault, a music lover and a billionaire. They have three children: Alexandre, Frédéric and Jean, who inherited their business savvy and love of music from their parents.

Hélène was born in the town of Mount Royal in 1962. She was barely six years old when she started studying the piano. In her teens, she attended prestigious music schools. Very soon, prizes won at major music competitions confirmed her huge talent.

Honoré Mercier (Saint-Athanase, 1840 - Montreal, 1894), a lawyer and a journalist, was the ninth Premier of Quebec (1887-1891). He was first elected as a liberal member of the House of Commons in the riding of Rouville (1872-1874), and then he was later elected as a liberal member of the Legislative Assembly for the riding of Saint-Hyacinthe (1879-1890). In 1883, he became the leader of the liberal opposition, but in reaction to the hanging of Louis Riel, he created the Parti national in 1885 to group together the French-Canadian conservatives and liberals. On January 29, 1887, he became Premier of Quebec.

During his term, he encouraged regional development and to that end, he created in 1888, the ministry of Agriculture and Colonisation. He has been recognized as the first head of government to talk about provincial autonomy and he is seen as the father of Quebec nationalism. He ended his political career representing the riding of Bonaventure.

Here are other roads bearing the name of Mercier, but not connected to Honoré Mercier.

Rue Mercier

RUE MERCIER

Sept-îles : This street was named in honour of Charles Mercier (circa 1800-circa 1880). Originally from La Malbaie, he settled in the area of Moisie, where he made a living hunting and fishing.

Lévis : This street was named in honour of Alfred Mercier, master baker in Lauzon.

Source: Généalogie Alida Mercier - nosorigines.qc.ca

Rivière-Rouge: This street was named in honour of Moïse Mercier also known as Lajoie, an explorer of the Yukon with his brother François-Xavier, also one of the founders of the municipality of the canton of Turgeon (which became the municipality of the village of Sainte-Véronique) where he settled in 1897. He was elected mayor of that municipality in 1905.

Moïse Mercier also known as Lajoie married Alida Mercier on January 18, 1876, in L'Assomption, Quebec.

Bécancour : This street is in an area where roads were given the names of Acadian families.

Saint-Philippe : The name recalls a local family and honours the memory of Réal Mercier, a resident of Saint-Philippe who died in January 2004.

Québec City : The name of this street honours François Mercier, who used to own lands in the area where the street is located.

Trois-Rivières : This street name was given to honour notary Ludger-Philippe Mercier, who was also the 8th commanding officer of the Régiment de Trois-Rivières and a liberal member for Trois-Rivières in the Quebec National Assembly.

Victoriaville : This street was named to honour Florent Mercier (1928-2001).

La Tuque : The street name honours Édouard Mercier, one of the pioneers in the region.

Asbestos, Saint-Félix-de-Kinsey, Saint-Lin-des-Laurentides, Saint-Lambert, Saint-David-de-Falardeau, Sainte-Sophie, Mascouche, Granby, Lac-Drolet and Montmagny : The Mercier names of those streets honour local families.

Rimouski, Montréal (Ile Bizard), Saint-Constant, Châteauguay, Les Coteaux, Saint-Étienne-des-Grès, Sainte-Élisabeth, Val-des-Monts, Montpellier, Sainte-Marthe-sur-le-Lac, Saint-Philippe-de-Néri, Clermont, Sainte-Thérèse-de-Gaspé, Saint-Magloire, Saint-Michel-de-Bellechasse, Saint-Honoré-de-Shenley, Lambton, Irlande, Saint-Joseph-de-Coleraine, Laurierville, Cap-Santé, Cowansville, Sainte-Anne-de-la-Pérade and Wotton. All these names are of unknown origin.

AVENUE MERCIER

Source: Wikipédia

Laval : The name given to this avenue honours François-Xavier-Romuald Mercier also known as Lajoie, parish priest at Saint-Vincent-de-Paul from 1839 to 1847. See Le Mercien Volume 35, number 2, Summer 2019: François-Xavier Mercier (1805-1849) Dean and Archdeacon of the Diocese of Montréal.

François-Xavier-Romuald Mercier also known as Lajoie.

Montmagny : The name of this avenue comes from that of a local family.

Salaberry-de-Valleyfield : Unknown origin.

BOULEVARD MERCIER

Beaumont : Unknown origin.

RUE LE MERCIER

Québec: This name honours François-Marc-Antoine Le Mercier or Lemercier), an artillery officer. He occupied various military positions. In 1757, he commanded the Royal-Roussillon Regiment in Quebec City. He went back to France in 1759.

Saint-Bruno-de-Montarville : This name honours François Le Mercier, husband of Marie-Françoise de La Bruère, daughter of René Boucher de La Bruère, second seigneur of Montarville

Matane : The name of that street is probably connected to the first ferry connecting Matane and the North Shore, in service from 1920 to 1930.

DIVERS

Rue Bernard-Mercier in Terrebonne : The name refers to Bernard Mercier, also known as Lafontaine (1645-1703). He was a resident of Lachenaie in 1676 and he still lived there in 1700.

Source: Services du patrimoine de la ville de Lévis

Rivière-Ouelle : Chemin de l'anse Mercier. This road leads to the Mercier cove, where several Merciers have built their house since the arrival of Gilbert Mercier in 1846.

Namur, Bury, Saint-Simon-de-Rimouski, Port-Daniel-Gascon, Saint-Elzéar, Rouyn-Noranda, Larouche and New-Richmond. All these names are of unknown origin.

Napoléon-Mercier in Lévis : The name of this street honours Napoléon Mercier (1851-1930). He started a business called Les Scies Mercier (Mercier Saws), which has been in the area since 1911. Napoléon Mercier was one of the great businessmen of Lévis and he occupied several positions in various organizations and institutions, including as an alderman.

Rue Dominique-Mercier in Shawinigan : This name refers to Dominique Mercier (1899-1978), born in Fall River (Massachusetts, United States).

Rue Florence-Mercier in Longueuil : This street name refers to Florence Mercier (1942-2012). She was a city councillor of Longueuil, from 1982 to 1990.

Rue J.-C. Mercier in Nicolet : The name of this street refers to Joseph-Chrysologue Mercier (Montmagny, 1895 - Nicolet, 1965). He was a professor at the École normale des Sœurs de l'Assomption (teachers training school) in Nicolet where he taught for almost forty years.

Rue Jean-Mercier in Sherbrooke : This name refers to Jean Mercier (1920-1997), a priest, historian and toponymist (one who studies place names).

Rue Antonio-Mercier à Charlemagne and rue Henri-Mercier in Montcalm :
Unknown origin.

Rue Pascal-Mercier in Berthier-sur-Mer : In 1673, Paschal Mercier started to clear a plot of land in Berthier and that land was farmed by several generations of his descendants.

Route Pierre-Mercier in Mont-Saint-Pierre : The name refers to Pierre Mercier, the ancestor of the Merciers of Mont-Saint-Pierre and Mont-Louis.

There are almost 250 toponyms (place names) associated with the name Mercier in Quebec: whether they be a city, bridge, park, island, brook, river, lake, canal, branch or arm, borough, reservoir, pass, point, house, pond, cove, post office, camp, quarter, canton, bay, dam, electoral riding. The Merciers have left their mark throughout the territory.
