A WORD FROM THE PRESIDENT

Greetings to all!

You have just finished reading our Summer issue! Here is our latest edition. Our first item gives a bit of history of particular interest for residents of the south shore of Quebec City, and it is about the "Scies Mercier" building, located almost half-way down Côte du Passage in Lévis on the way to the Quebec-Lévis ferry. A debate has been ongoing about the protection of cultural sites in Quebec. We also share with you an article about Robert Mercier, who defies statistics on people working past the age of 70. The next item is about "L'Ordre national du mérite agricole" established by Honoré Mercier in 1889 and awarded to several "Merciers" since its creation. We tell you about the latest Mercier recipients: Nathalie Labonté and Sylvain Mercier, from the lineage of Pierre to Julien, whose business "Labonté de la pomme", an apple orchard and honey farm in Oka, was chosen as the national winner in a special category of agrotourism in 2018.

The last section includes the President's report for 2020-2021, followed by the financial statements and budget from our Treasurer, Ms. Lise St-André. As well, on page 8 we look at the membership of our Facebook Group.

I want to thank once again those who work in the background editing, translating, supplying tech support, or working on genealogy. Our thanks also go to the spouses of the members of the board. We are also particularly "thankful" to all of you for following us so faithfully!

We hope the Holidays this year will be different from the last ones, filled with "hugs and kisses and family gatherings that we have missed so much". On behalf of the members of the Board of our Association, we wish you all:

*Joyeux Noël et
Bonne Année 2022.
Jacques Mercier,
n°341, président*

THE SCIES MERCIER BUILDING WILL NOT BE DEMOLISHED

In 1891, Napoléon Mercier created the Manufacture de Scies de Lévis, specializing in the making of various sizes of saws and knives. The business was at first located in a building on Saint-Laurent Street, in the Lowertown area of Lévis.

Located in Vieux-Lévis, the Scies Mercier building was about to be demolished to make room for new condos.

In 1911, Napoléon Mercier acquired a property in the Uppertown area of Lévis, which is the present location of the Scies Mercier building. The land, going back to the seignior system, included a brick house and a wood outbuilding in the backyard.

The Napoléon Mercier business transformed the existing outbuilding into a workshop to produce saws. This structure is still integrated into the main building, but it has undergone several expansions: a second structure was added to the outbuilding and two more were built to form the Scies Mercier property. The structure to the south of the outbuilding, built between 1865 and 1894, was demolished in 2017.

The Scies Mercier building, with its rustic architecture, was typical of workshops built around the end of the XIXTH century. The structure was built for industrial purposes, being designed more for its uses than for its aesthetic appearance.

The bend in the Côte Fréchette street was reconfigured before 1960 and traffic was redirected from the front to the back of the building, and that is why it looks as if the building structure is below the level of the street. The face of the building abuts Davidson Hill (now called Côte Fréchette), which is a very busy arterial road linking Côte du Passage with the commercial area surrounding the Ferry Terminal.

The workshop was built towards the end of the XIXTH Century.

The products of the Scies Mercier company were famous nationwide for their precision as cutting implements. Most of the wood moldings enhancing buildings in Quebec City and Lévis were very likely cut using knives made by that company. In 1946, the Manufacture de Scies de Lévis was renamed Les Scies Mercier limitée.

In 1987, the Garant family acquired the business, by then called Les Scies Mercier inc., and that put an end to almost one hundred years of history for the Mercier family. The name Mercier has remained linked with the company, still operating in Lévis. It is considered to be one of the oldest cutting tool factories still in operation in North America.

ROBERT MERCIER, A TRUCK DRIVER AT THE AGE OF 76

*Source: Internet site of the Journal de Montréal, by Julien Mcevoy, September 18, 2021.
What if older people worked more? The number of Quebecers 55 and older, who are still working, is lower than in other OECD countries.*

Robert Mercier, now 76, served 39 years in the police force before becoming a truck driver. He does not intend to stop working any time soon.

*Robert Mercier, now 76, served 39 years in the police force before becoming a truck driver.
He does not intend to stop working any time soon.*

We keep hearing that there are not enough workers in Quebec. What if part of the solution lay with hiring our older workers?

"Quebecers work a lot more than people elsewhere, except for those between the ages of 55 and 70", asserts Jean-François Bertholet, a specialist in labour market issues who teaches at HEC Montréal (School of business administration at the University of Montreal).

When Lucien Bouchard joked in 2006 that Quebecers did not work enough, "he may have been talking about his own generation”, said with a smile the professor, who is also a guest speaker, researcher, and author.

The university professor and numbers enthusiast is not alone in saying that. Desjardins (savings and credit union) made a similar statement in a report dated September 7, 2021.

“One of the reasons is that there are more people who work for the Quebec Government and who are entitled to excellent pensions”, according to the principal economist at Desjardins, Joëlle Noreau.

Numbers don't lie. The Quebec Economy Minister - who is not exactly in his prime - also knows it. As recently as September 4, 2021, Pierre Fitzgibbon told the Journal that “people between 55 and 70 in Quebec work less than workers in the same age group in Ontario”.

Quebec vs Ontario

Older Canadians' numbers in the workforce are lower than in other countries, according to the most recent OECD data. In Japan, 77 % of people aged 55 to 64 are working. Only 62.3 % of Canadians in that age group are working. Our older citizens in the work force also lag behind the Germans (71.6 %) and the Swedes (76.3 %).

“We should certainly not blame younger people right now”, says Jean-François Bertholet.

In Canada, 53.3 % of those aged 15 to 24 are working. The rate is 47 % in Germany, 46 % in Japan and 38 % in Sweden.

As for the comparison between Quebec and Ontario, it is true that older people in Ontario are working more than they are in Quebec. The greatest difference is in the age group from 60 to 64, where 51.5 % in Quebec work, compared to 57.4 % in Ontario.

Working for the fun in it

Robert Mercier did not wait for Minister Fitzgibbon's call to take the plunge. The man who is known to everyone as Ti-Bob is a truck driver in his second career.

The 76-year-old man has spent the last 20 years behind the wheel, after working 39 years as a patrol officer in the police force of Saint-Basile-le-Grand, which is now known as the Régie intermunicipale de police Richelieu-Saint-Laurent.

“Everything is going well, and I am having the time of my life”, says the sympathetic septuagenarian.

When we had this conversation, he was on his way to Niagara Falls, which is a 690 kilometre trip. “I suppose I could stop, but what else would you want me to do?” he said with a laugh.

As long as I remain healthy

He lives in McMasterville, a Montreal suburb, where he owns a triplex, and he also gets his pension as a former policeman. "I don't need the money. I work for the pleasure of it", admits Ti-Bob.

He will continue to work so long as he remains healthy. "I stopped drinking 20 years ago. I keep fit. I am always careful", he says.

After 5 years of driving on the roads of Western Canada and the United States, he has recently reduced the length of his trips.

"Sometimes, I take a 20-minute nap, and then I am ready to go and hit the road again", says Robert. He anticipates he will keep on trucking for a while longer. That should be music to Minister Fitzgibbon's ears!

HONORÉ MERCIER CREATOR OF THE "MÉRITE AGRICOLE"

Agricultural columnist Édouard-A. Barnard was undoubtedly the man who thought of initiating the competition for Mérite agricole or Excellence in Agriculture award. However, the man recognized as having created the award and who decisively moved it forward was Honoré Mercier, Premier of Quebec from 1887 to 1891, and Commissioner of Agriculture and Colonization. It has been said that during a trip he made to France in 1887, Premier Mercier became convinced that it would be a good thing to hold a competition in Quebec, to promote progress in agriculture, after hearing of the Mérite agricole created by the French Government in 1883. At the request of Premier Mercier, Commissioner of Agriculture, Colonel Rhodes, prepared a bill in 1888 to manage such a competition. After sharing his goal with the members of his Cabinet, Premier Mercier got the Legislative Assembly to vote, on February 4, 1889, for the "Act creating provincial agricultural competitions and awards for Mérite agricole (Excellence in Agriculture)". The Lieutenant Governor gave assent to the new law on March 21st of that year. The first competition for Mérite agricole was held in 1890.

Honoré Mercier organized the first competition himself and it was a success. It was indeed at his request that teacher O.E. Dallaire recruited candidates to the Mérite agricole in the counties of Laval and Deux-Montagnes. Recruiting participants went so well that by June 1, 1890, 34 farmers had enrolled in the competition being held in the first division, which was the Montreal region. The first winner of the Mérite agricole was Charles Champagne of Saint-Eustache, in the county of Deux-Montagnes, and he had been recruited by Dallaire. However, according to the terms of the Loi sur le Mérite agricole, there was not to be a gold medal winner in the first year of the competition since that winner had to have won a silver medal before winning a gold one. It seems that Premier Mercier wanted so much to give a great start to the Mérite agricole, that he chose to organize a huge event to honour the "patriarch of Canadian farmers", where he would introduce Quebec farmers as models to be emulated. The fact that the Mérite agricole competition has been held non-stop for more than 130 years shows that Premier Mercier was right.

The rules for the Mérite agricole competition were changed somewhat over the years. The competition has evolved and is now governed by the Loi sur l'Ordre national du mérite agricole, whose aim is to promote agriculture and to grant awards to people working in agriculture.

Several entrepreneurs in agriculture named Mercier, both men and women, have made their mark at the regional and provincial level. Among them are Nathalie Labonté and Sylvain Mercier, whose business is called Labonté de la pomme, an apple orchard and honey farm in Oka, in the Laurentian area, national winner with a special mention for agrotourism in 2018. Over the years, this business has garnered multiple awards.

In the Quebec National Assembly's Red Room, the business "Labonté de la pomme" was honoured, in 2018, with the prestigious award "Gagnante nationale spéciale de l'Agrotourisme" (Special National Winner in Agrotourism) by the Quebec Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, Mr. André Lamontagne. Nathalie Labonté and Sylvain Mercier are accompanied by their children: Alexandra, Marilyne and Marc-André Mercier.

Source : Ministère de l'Agriculture, des Pêcheries et de l'Alimentation du Québec

Since 2005, Nathalie and Sylvain, 5th generation farmers, took over from the Labonté and Dufresne families, who started as dairy farmers. In the 1930s, they sold their production to the Trappist Monks, who would use it to make their renowned Oka cheese. The families turned gradually to new food products, such as berries and apples.

Their agrotourism property is open to the public. Visitors can participate in a number of activities in a rural setting surrounded by the rustic scenery of the Lower Laurentians, such as picking apples or cherries, harvesting vegetables or pumpkins, visiting a mini farm, having a ride in the fields, or a meal at the apple shack with a menu based on apples, local maple and honey products, visiting the honey farm, seeing the antique oven and the local product shop. Come maple harvest time, the Apple Shack becomes the Apple Maple Shack.

In conclusion, it is worth mentioning that the founding President of l'Association des Mercier de l'Amérique du Nord, Ernest Mercier, received in 1961, the honorary title of Commander of the Order of Mérite agricole. He was an agronomist and Deputy Minister of Agriculture for Quebec.

REPORT FROM THE PRESIDENT FOR THE YEAR 2020-2021

Dear members, ladies, and gentlemen,

It was a historic year, if ever there was one. The 35th Gathering had to be postponed by reason of force majeure. The Covid-19 pandemic had forced both levels of government to impose restrictions that the members of the Board of the Association had to respect. Just as we have done over the last few years, by the end of 2020 we had already finalized the plans for our gathering in Saint-Jean-sur-Richelieu, with a tour and the installation of "a sign bearing a historical description", at the Musée Honoré-Mercier, in Sainte-Anne-de-Sabrevois. We waited until the very last possible moment before postponing the gathering.

The meetings of the Board have been held via the Internet using Zoom. The first one was held on November 19, 2020, when it was officially decided to postpone our 35th Gathering, and on the financial side, it was resolved to close our U.S. currency bank account. We also discussed at length the updating of our Mercier Genealogy Database dating from 2015, updating it electronically onto a USB key. Mario worked many long hours on that project. After that, we directed our energies to the upcoming issues of Le Mercien, offering contents that would be as diverse as possible since this publication remains our best link with our members. We want to highlight a younger generation of Merciers from different fields of endeavour. Our goal is also to get the Merciers known outside of Quebec. During our second and last meeting on May 3, 2021, our Treasurer Lise submitted the financial statements as of April 30, 2021, and the usual updates on other files.

We have seen an increase in Internet use by our members, but also by people who are not already members and yet visit our Facebook page. Mario, Benoît, Gilmond and I (Jacques) are following closely the questions asked by several Merciers searching for their family backgrounds. Our thanks go to Gilmond for adding content to our Facebook page, for acting as the site moderator, and for sifting through the various requests.

We are remaining active, keeping up with Public Health recommendations, and making sure we strictly abide by them.

Thank you all for continuing to follow us!
